BORDEN RECEIVES HEARTY WELCOME

No politician ever received a more hearty welcome, than did R. L. Borden, K.C., M.P., on the occasion of his visit to Lacombe yesterday. The whole town turned out to do honor to the leader of the Conservative party in Canada. When the special train carrying Mr. Borden and his party arrived at the station here, a procession of gaily decked automobiles lined up, and taking the party in hand drove them through the immediate district, among other places visiting the experimental farm.

At seven o'clock the meeting in the opera house was called to order by A. M. Macdonald, President of the Lacombe Conservative Association, and the first speaker, Mr. Percy, of Montreal was introduced. Mr. Percy dealt with the reciprocity question in a very able manner, but failed to raise very great enthusiasm in the audience.

Before Mr. Borden commenced his speech, Mr. Macdonald, in his capacity as Mayor of Lacombe, presented him with an address of welcome on behalf of the citizens of the town, to which Mr. Borden replied in a few remarks.

In his political address, Mr. Borden took up the reciprocity question and other questions affecting Canada, and was listened to most attentively. Mr. Bergeron also gave a short address.

Besides the three speakers, there were on the platform Messrs. A. M. Macdonald, Michener, of Red Deer, Capt. Phillips, and Jackson, of Ponoka. The committee in charge of the reception are to be congratulated on the completeness of the arrangements, and the hearty spirit in which they were carried out.

HISTORY OF RECIPROCITY

To one familiar with the reciprocity discussion, Mr. Borden's speech comes as an old friend. It does not contain a new phrase or a new idea which has not been repeated ad nauseam in the interminable debate at Ottawa. He has trotted out all the old arguments in their weather-beaten garb, and even a new ribbon to furnish them up and give them an aspect of freshness. To some of these already time-worn contentions we propose to direct the public attention.

THE HISTORY OF RECIPROCITY

Mr. Borden is not to be commended for the candor with which he discusses the historical record of reciprocity. He alludes to "Canada, by this agreement, reversing the policy of thirty years." He admits that Canada desired reciprocity with the United States in 1867 and 1879, but contends that conditions have so changed since then that what was then desirable at that time is no longer desirable. He slides over the events of 1891 and the subsequent years of the Conservative regime. Nothing is easier than to demonstrate that, until the Conservatives went out of power, fifteen years ago, they were pledged to reciprocity in natural products.

WHAT SIR CHARLES TUPPER URGED IN 1888

In 1888 Sir Charles Tupper stated in the Canadian House of Commons that, in negotiating at that time with the United States government, "the instructions with which I was charged by this government were to obtain, if it was possible, as near an approach to the reciprocity treaty of 1854 as I could obtain—that is, the policy of carrying out free exchange in the natural products of the two countries. I was to urge that policy."

SIR JOHN A. MACDONALD'S CLAIM IN 1891

In 1891 Sir John A. Macdonald, in dissolving parliament, gave as his reason the desire that he should secure a mandate to negotiate a reciprocity arrangement in natural products with the United States. Dr. Parkin, his biographer, noting his action at that time, says:

"He claimed with apparent truth that every improvement in reciprocity had been made with the neighbor republic had been obtained by Conservative governments of which he was a member. He now took steps, through the medium of the home government, in connection with certain discussions concerning New Foundland and Canadian fisheries, to approach the government of the United States once more with proposals for considering reciprocity questions in dispute between that country and Canada, with a view to an amicable settlement, and especially with the object of extending commercial intercourse between the two countries."

ONLY THE TORIES COULD GET RECIPROCITY

Sir Charles Tupper, who can be said very vigorously for the government in the election of 1891, declared upon the platform that the government had been invited to negotiate with Washington, and made promises that reciprocity in natural products would be secured. Speaking only three days before polling day, he said:

"I say, Sir, that the means of obtaining fair reciprocal trade arrangements with the United States would be utterly defeated if the party who are now professing to carry out a thing they knew to be an utter delusion could obtain power. But, Sir, with my right honorable friend sustained, as he will be when he goes down on the 4th of March to Washington, in response to the invitation received from the United States, of which I am able to speak personally—when he goes down there, strengthened by the electors of Canada, then, I say, the prospects are very good indeed."

SIR JOHN THOMPSON'S APPEAL

Sir John S. D. Thompson, Minister of Justice, in his election address to his constituents of Antigonish, dated Feb. 24th, 1891, said:

"The government of which I am a member is appealing to the country with a policy which we believe will be heartily endorsed by a great majority of the electors. We have made to the government of the United States, through the government of Great Britain, proposals for reciprocity in trade, which we have good reasons to believe will result in an arrangement by which the markets of the United States will be opened to the products which our people desire most to send there."

"A fair measure of reciprocity is what we desire, and we have no doubts that that can be obtained without sacrifice."

WILLING TO INTERCHANGE MANUFACTURES

After the election of 1891, Sir Charles Tupper and Mr. Foster went to Washington to carry on negotiations with the United States. These were abortive. The reasons for the failure are set forth in a speech by George E. Foster, Minister of Finance in the House of Commons, on April 17, 1892. Mr. Foster declared that the Canadian government was prepared to negotiate not only for an interchange of natural products, but also "upon the basis of leading lines of manufactured articles being included in the treaty."

The breaking point came when the American Government asked that their manufactured articles should be given preferential treatment in the Canadian market. This the Canadian Government promptly refused. He alluded to his speech in 1891, who was replying to an attack by Mr. John Charlton, regarding the Canadian suggestion that the Government was not sincere in its efforts to make a reciprocity agreement with the United States.

THE CONSERVATIVE STANDING OFFER OF 1894

There is further enlightenment in Mr. Foster's speech of April 17, 1894. The National Policy of 1894 contained a standing offer of reciprocity in natural products. Conservatives, in admitting this, declare that it was eliminated from a tariff when it was revised in 1894 by Mr. Foster. This is not correct. The form in which the offer was made is changed, but the standing offer, in much the same terms as those which were used in the legislation of 1879, is in fact included in the tariff. (See clauses 7, 10, 11 and 12 of the Customs Act of 1894.) Mr. Foster, in his speech of April 17, 1894, refers repeatedly to the offer of reciprocity in the tariff, and in the bill which was then going through. He speaks about "our offer of reciprocity in the legislation we proposed," and says that "legislative reciprocity, so far as trade is concerned, is a matter of the positions that the government put before the House to-day." (See Hansard for 1894, pages 1555 to 1558.)

Thus it is seen that the Conservative party, so far from having abandoned reciprocity thirty years ago, maintained its approval of an arrangement of this nature up to as late a date as 1896. Indeed, it never placed itself on record as opposed to reciprocity until Mr. Borden, in defiance of the traditions of the party, took that momentous step at Ottawa within the last three months.

A STRAIGHT QUESTION FOR MR. BORDEN

It is a fair question to put to Mr. Borden to ask him to state what are the changed conditions which make that measure of reciprocity which was beneficial in 1891, in the judgment of the Conservative leaders of that day, utterly ruinous to the nation in 1911. Canada at that time was relatively a much weaker country than the present. If the sale of our natural products to the United States will destroy confederation—because that is what Mr. Borden's language means—would this not have been equally disastrous in 1891? If the disruption of the east-and-west traffic in 1911 is to be so ruinous to the railway, what would have been the consequences to the C. P. R. in 1891, when it was a struggling concern, which a year or so later, found it necessary to pass its dividend? The C. P. R. was the special child of Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir Charles Tupper, who were earnest advocates, in 1891, of a policy which, if Mr. Borden is to be believed, would have absolutely ruined that enterprise. Were Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir Charles Tupper blind to the consequences of their policy in 1891, or is R. L. Borden talking nonsense in 1911?

INADMISSIBLE STATEMENTS

Mr. Borden quotes statements by Sir John A. Macdonald and Edward Blake, directed against the Liberal policy of unrestricted reciprocity in 1891, and seeks to apply to the arrangement of to-day. Aware that he is here on delicate ground, he seeks to make his quotations admissible by declaring that the present arrangement will inevitably lead to commercial union, against which Sir John Macdonald and Edward Blake's criticisms were directed. To this it may be replied that the present agreement can never develop into the commercial union without the consent of the Canadian Parliament being first secured. If such a proposition is ever made, the objections of Sir John Macdonald and Edward Blake will have a real and effective bearing on the controversy. At present they are inadmissible. Nothing is clearer than that Sir John A. Macdonald would have been delighted in 1891 to get such an arrangement as that which has now been made with the United States.

MR. BLAKE WILL NOT OPPOSE RECIPROCITY

The use of Mr. Edward Blake's West Durham letter, written in 1891, is equally inappropriate. In this letter he said that, in Canada's then existing political condition, a moderate revenue tariff, approximating to free trade with all the world, and coupled with liberal provision for reciprocal free trade with the States, would be, if practicable, our best arrangement. He pointed out, however, that this was not attainable in view of the settled policy of the United States to decline a measure of reciprocity. Mr. Blake's allude was further defined by his statement at Stratford, Nov. 24, 1897, in which he declared himself again in hearty sympathy with the Liberal policy. In this speech he pointed out that in 1891 he had been obliged to differ with his party on its policy of unrestricted reciprocity, but that in 1893 the Liberal party had laid down a fresh policy on the trade question to which, generally it was his great pleasure to give force. He indeed it was that which he had always maintained himself. The declaration of the Liberal convention of 1893 on reciprocity was in favor of a "fair and liberal reciprocity treaty, including a well-considered list of manufactured articles." It is thus quite apparent that Mr. Blake was not twenty years ago, opposed to such a trade arrangement as has now been made.

LAURIER DID NOT REPUDIATE RECIPROCITY

Mr. Borden seeks also to make it appear that the Liberals, after 1896, definitely abandoned their policy of securing better trade relations with the United States. The only fact he adduces in support of this contention is a question from a statement made by Sir Wilfrid Laurier at the Imperial conference in 1897. He quotes merely a sentence, detaching it from the context which explains it. This is "inexcusable, because the whole tenor of what Sir Wilfrid said had been to the contrary of time again. We quote it once more, and leave it to the common sense of the reader whether it can by any conceivable ingenuity be twisted into a declaration that Canada had abandoned its policy of trade relations with the United States, provided the latter country was agreeable to entering into such arrangements. The statement is to be found in the official report of the Colonial Conference of 1907, page 422, and is in these terms:

"Between the preferential tariff and the general tariff we have now an intermediate tariff. The object of this intermediate tariff is to enter into negotiations with other communities to have trade arrangements with them. It has been supposed that this was to hit our American neighbors. With our American neighbors we should be only too glad to trade on a better footing than at the present time. We next door neighbors and in many things we can be their best market, as in many things they can be our best market. We should be glad to trade with them, but it never was intended nor thought at the time, that this intermediate tariff could apply to the United States. There was at one time a wanted reciprocity with them, but our efforts and our offers were negative and paid aside, and we have said good-bye to that trade, and we have put all our hopes upon the British trade now."

MUTUALLY DESTRUCTIVE ARGUMENTS

Turning now to the consideration of other matters, it is found that Mr. Borden, like lesser opponents of the agreement, has not been able to keep out of his speech arguments that destroy one another, thus, for example:

The United States is not a market for our natural products because it grows the same things as we do, and has in such an exportable surplus as is shipped abroad to the markets of the world. Also, that Canada need not have bargained for admission of our natural products because the United States, in order to get them, would soon have admitted them free without any concessions on our part.

HAULTAIN NOT TO BE WORKED

Dominion Conservative Leader

Mr. Borden, and Provincial Conservative Leader, Haultain, met at Regina last week, and Haultain was asked to come out in opposition to the reciprocity agreement, of which he is a staunch supporter. Haultain refused to be co-opted by the millionaire manufacturers of the east, and those parties at present touring the west in their interests.

Like the honest man that he is, Haultain said: "I have in mind the fact that reciprocity with the United States is a policy which not only represents a step forward, but a policy which was approved of even in the earlier stages of government in Canada, even before we had what might be termed responsible government; having that in view, I must confess that even when the reciprocity agreement was spoken of and first announced, I took the view that the agreement was a step in the right direction and I am free to say that after hearing, and reading the many speeches on the question, I see no necessity to change my first impressions. The point about the agreement which appeals to me is that it provides an unlimited market for the food-stuffs produced throughout the Dominion."

nion. I will support it, and so will the Conservatives of Saskatchewan to a man.

"On the question of loyalty I yield to no man. We out here in the west are just as able to decide what is patriotic or unpatriotic as are the millionaire manufacturers of the east. I am not prepared to sit at the feet of any of these eastern Canada and study loyalty. If the proposed arrangement does not turn out as satisfactory as it is hoped or intended, it will be a simple thing enough to change it or to abrogate it. The arrangement can be done away with practically at once, and that is another reason for trying the experiment. I may be called selfish, local and provincial, but I am perfectly willing to accept these large adjectives."

Like the honest man that he is, Haultain said: "I have in mind the fact that reciprocity with the United States is a policy which not only represents a step forward, but a policy which was approved of even in the earlier stages of government in Canada, even before we had what might be termed responsible government; having that in view, I must confess that even when the reciprocity agreement was spoken of and first announced, I took the view that the agreement was a step in the right direction and I am free to say that after hearing, and reading the many speeches on the question, I see no necessity to change my first impressions. TEES CONCERT

On the evening of the 16th, a very successful concert and bazaar was held in the Presbyterian church at Tees. The object of the entertainment was to raise funds to clear off a balance of debt on the church building, and financially and every other way the result was gratifying.

There was a large gathering, presided over by Mr. Corder, the student in charge, who briefly introduced the program, which was one of much merit. A musical selection, "The Sweet Bye and Bye," from Miss Stella McMillan, was the opening item and the beautiful old melody so sympathetically rendered received the appreciation it deserved. Mr. Cameron, who had driven all the way from Lacombe, bringing several talented entertainers with him sang "Auntie Laurie" in a manner which only a Scotchman can. His young daughter, Miss Jessie Cameron, with a voice full of promise, revealed the pathos of "My Old Kentucky Home." A duet, "The Lord is my Shepherd," was rendered with much acceptance, by Mrs. Campbell and Miss Murphy, accompanied by Miss Cameron, all from Lacombe. Later, Mrs. Campbell did "Killarney" as much justice as if she had come from the Lakes of Killarney, instead of the Land of the Leal Clive, the town with a future, also rendered acceptable assistance. A quartette composed of Mrs. Reynolds, the Misses Allison, Miss Sammel and Mr. Breton presented "Silver Bell," and in response to an imperative encore, delighted everyone with the "Spanish Gaiter." Mr. Breton, also sung in his own splendid style, the sea song, "Anchored." It is a pity that one with this gentleman's talent should still be aloft on the sea of life—all, all alone.

Miss Allison and Miss Sammel were heard to advantage in "If I had Only got a Home Sweet Home," which received generous applause. Castor, too, far from the east, came to help us bringing Mrs. Lambert, who sung most sympathetically "Home Dearie, Home," a mother's farewell to her boy. Her two sisters, the Misses Fry, sang the catchy little song, "The Mouse and the Frog," and Miss Fry recited a pathetic scene "In the Hospital." Local talent was well represented by Mrs. Abbott, who sang "Don't You Tell," and "Can't you see the Rainbow" in a manner which will in future render her presence indispensable. Mr. Harry Moore—as he always does—pleased everybody with his recitation about a day's experience at the sea side in company which most young men covet. Mr. Walkinshaw, Presbyterian student north of town, gave an address. On the motion of Mr. P. E. Allison, seconded by Mr. Percy Walters, a cordial vote of thanks was tendered to all who had assisted in the evening's entertainment.

A. W. Lawson kindly acted as auctioneer in disposing of the large number of baskets generously brought by the ladies. Miss Swartwood acted as clerk. The sale and when all was said and done, enough money had been raised to fulfill the object of the evening. Tees church is now free of debt and the best thanks to those interested are due to those who so generously assisted.

PONOKA NEWS

C. R. Marker, Alberta Dairy Commissioner, paid a surprise visit to the Wild Horse creamery, arriving at 7 a.m. last Thursday. He expressed his satisfaction at the improved appearance of the creamery. About 34 tons of butter were made last week and on Saturday over 6000 lbs. of cream was taken in. Last week some of the farmers were hauling in baled timothy hay for which they are getting $18 per ton. Has it been considered that at this price a man can pay $25 for his land and his grub stake as well as a couple of cows. Are the farmers in this neighborhood selling their land too cheap?

Councillor John Hageman and a nasty experience with one of his pure bred Ayshire bulls on Thursday evening. He had occasion to go into the stall to feed the animal, when it became angry and knocked him down. Mr. Hageman had a precarious escape, the bull making several attempts to gore him. Medical aid was called, when it was found that, although very severely bruised, no bones were broken. The animal had to be destroyed.

CASSTON NEWS

On Monday evening D. A. Jones was taxed $10.00 by Justices of the Peace Birch and Brown, for "cruelty to animals." It appeared from the evidence that Jones was soundly belabouring an ancient steed for a bad case of "balk," and during the process laid many and varied stripes on the animal.

Geo. Wunner was arrested on Monday by Constable Coventry, R. N. W. M. P. It appears that Wunner was passing phony cheques in Edmonton as payment on lots purchased there, and on requisition from the police there he was gathered in. He was wanted to that point Tuesday.

MARRIED—On Wednesday, June 14, at the home of the bride's brother, P. H. McCallum, Edmonton, Mr. Frederick Edward Gehlke, of Castor, to Miss Lizzie Jane McCallum, of Edmonton, the Rev. Dr. J. S. Nichol officiating. The young couple will make their home in the Walters addition.

Miss McIntyre was hailed before the Justice of the Peace Birch, on Saturday, charged with infringement of the town by-law, in that she did not have her dairy cows tested as required by the by-law. A fine of $3 and costs was imposed.

ALIX NEWS

At 5.30 o'clock on Monday afternoon the first regular train over the Grand Trunk Pacific Edmonton-Calgary line left the C. N. R. depot at Edmonton. The service will be continued daily to a point within a few miles of Alix, and will probably run into Alix within a few days as soon as the crossing signal system at the C. P. R. diamond is completed. The train leaves Edmonton at 5.30 p.m., arriving at 10.30 p.m., and returning will leave at 7.30 a.m., reaching Edmonton at 12.20 noon.

Revenge, Revenge, This was the one sole thought of the Castor team as they laid their weary heads down to rest on Monday evening. They had come down with blood in their eyes and were certain sure they would wallop the stuffy' out of Alix. It was a good game party way until Hal made a bad throw to first instead of home, and Dorsey followed it with a wild throw to home plate. The whole team seemed to go up in the air simultaneously, with the result that in the merry-go-round Castor tallied three scores to Alix' five.

Complaints are reported from all districts that great damage is being done by the cut worm, which in many places has completely destroyed all garden vegetables, and in some places has even killed out the alfalfa. Many farmers have had to replant their entire gardens, and one farmer who sowed six acres of alfalfa states that six acres are now as bare as a desert. Wheat, oats, and other grains do not appear to be affected, and the continued favorable weather conditions have been such that a bumper crop is assured.

RED DEER NOTES

A very severe hail storm visited this section on June 22nd. Thousands of window panes were broken in the town, and great damage done to growing crops in the vicinity. The storm was local, no serious losses being reported from other parts of the district. The storm broke up the Coronation Day sports, pleasure seekers being compelled to make a quick getaway from the unprecedented large chunks of ice.

George Owens brought to town an enormous hen's egg on Monday. It was one of the largest we have ever seen, and weighed just one quarter of a pound. It measured eight and one-eighth inches in circumference around the ends and six and one-half inches around the centre. It can't be beaten in Alberta.

Mr. Nelson, Vice-President and General Manager of the Alberta Central Railway Co., arrived in Red Deer on Monday from the north, in company with J. C. Moore, solicitor of the company. Mr. Nelson will relieve John I. Moore, President of the company, of duties. Mr. Moore is expected in Red Deer in a few days.

SETTLER NOTES

Evacuation is being done for the insurance of Dr. Anger's house on the corner of June Street and Prospect Avenue, just opposite J. N. Rohrer's residence. Peter Kruger of Donalda was in Settle on Monday and reports seventy acres of fine spring wheat. He said that he gathered a sample from the field, that measured sixteen inches in length.

A. Raymond disposed of the Peck and Sale stable on Taylor St., opposite J. B. Griffith's implement house, on Saturday. The purchaser is David Neil, who will take charge of the business July 10th.

G. Ross Gilroy received the sad news of the death of his father at Regina last Thursday and left on Friday morning for that place. J. D. Kirby is looking after the store in Mr. Gilroy's absence.

C. L. Willis leaves this week for Ontario, and will be away about a month. He is taking a large number of pamphlets, on Settle's district, with him, and will endeavor to interest newspapers in the East on that subject.

Sells-Floto Big Circus

Of course as soon as the warm weather causes us to forget the dull monotony of winter we turn to the anticipated pleasures of the summer season. First and foremost comes the circus. It is a time-honored institution without which no springtime could adequately be ushered in. So it is that when the agent of the Sells-Floto circus made his appearance today we were doubly assured that the Norse King had lost his grip up on us.

The Sells-Floto circus will give two performances here on the 18th day of July, and it will be the first circus of the season to arrive. This show is popular for several reasons. In the first place it comes back year after year giving possibly the cleanest and most edifying performance of any organization in the world of the big tents. These people are the pioneers of the popular priced idea, having cut the admission fee in half last season and will continue that policy this year. Their war cry is 25 cents, to see the greatest show on earth for the money.

They are an independent corporation owing allegiance to no circus combine or trust. This is a to give the best values for the price in the history of amusements. Many novel features are promised for this season. An array of clowns, a baby hippopotamus, two baby elephants, Peolito Carbo in the most desperate act ever seen and for the first time ever produced, that of sliding head downward on a wire from the dome of the big tent, and a hundred other acts of the star variety are advertised.

The Sells-Floto people have always kept faith with the public and it can be stated as an absolute fact that the circus this year is larger and more magnificently caparisoned than ever before.

The woman of today who has good health, good temper, good sense, bright eyes and a lovely complexion, the result of correct living and good digestion, wins the admiration of the world. CAT HATCHES CHICKENS (Union Press Association.) NEW YORK, June 23.—From Westfield, N. Y., comes the report that a pet cat on a farm in the vicinity of that town recently hatched out four chickens and is mothering them like a sure-enough hen. Some persons, who heard the report, were at first inclined to doubt the truthfulness, but they abandoned their critical attitude when they learned that the owner of the farm, a Mr. Tappan, vouches for the truth of the statement. Mr. Tappan is a hard-shelled Baptist and a teacher in the Liberty corner Union Chapel Sunday school. He intends to send the cat and the chickens' school to President Taft, as soon as the chickens are old enough to stand transportation. President Taft will undoubtedly be delighted.

There is one medicine that every family should be provided with and especially during the summer months, viz. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed. It costs but a quarter. Can you afford to be without it? For sale by dealers everywhere.

CORONATION DAY

SERVICE HERE

Those who were in town and who attended the Coronation Service in St. Cyprian's church, have no cause to regret any little sacrifice they may have made in order to do so. The church was comfortably filled and it certainly was in accord with the spirit of the occasion that our churches should have united as they did for this occasion.

As soon as the first line of the National Anthem had been sung the leading notes of the service were given by the choir. Here at any rate those who differed religiously and politically had found common ground. Immediately after the opening hymn the Litany was sung with its special petitions for the Royal Family and its wide as the Empire requests for God's blessing upon all men.

The choir then sang a special Coronation Hymn, "The King, O Lord, in These Days Rejoices." It was well rendered and helped emphasize the solemnity of the occasion. The solemnities of the coronation as performed in Westminster Abbey were then recited, and it was reassuring to hear how carefully the discharge of the king's responsibilities are provided for.

Jackson's TeDeum followed, words and tune combining to lift the heart to the throne of the King of kings. The common allegiance due to an earthly sovereign was elided by the allegiance due to "The Father of an Infinite Majesty; Thine Honor, True and Only Son; Also the Holy Ghost, the Comforter."

Special prayers were offered. The Lord's Prayer, prayers for the King and Queen, for Christian Unity, and the Grace. Another Coronation Hymn was sung, to the tune of "Old Hundred," in which the congregation joined heartily.

A reading from Holy Scripture followed. The choir sang the Jubilate also by Jackson. The Pastor gave a short address in part as follows:—"It is not easy for us to realize, placed as we are, the features of this day. Coronation days do not often occur, thank God; and we pray such an occasion may not occur again soon. In every country in the world, English speaking people will be one with us in our prayers and praises."

In addition to those who still live under the old flag there are millions who will join us too, because our Old Country is the Old Country of their forefathers. The story is told of a lady from the United States going to Britain with a friend, who on the voyage, often spoke slightly of the British; but who, on land being sighted, broke into tears at the sight of the land of her forefathers. Again there are many who are foreigners, but who now are British subjects. They themselves find it hard to change their loyal allegiance from one ruler to another; but their grandchildren will be as loyal as any.

These have entered the British Empire seeking homes, and to-day home life is crowned at the heart of the Empire. The one outstanding feature is its definitely religious significance.

"By Me Kings Reign and Princes Decree Justice," says Infinite Wisdom. It is therefore meet that in God's house the King should receive his crown, make his vows, and submit to God.

We thank God that for many a year the heads of the Empire have won the love and respect of their subjects. Sentiment or no sentiment, there are no rulers anywhere more truly enshrined in the people's hearts than our own. Belonging to no political party, or rather to all; wide in their sympathies, truly human in their pleasures, themselves the heads of families, they have been an example to all.

There is a great unifying power in the common allegiance we owe our king; he not only stands for all that he is as a man, but for the highest ideals for the good government of the Empire.

The words of the Bishop of Durham, who knows His Majesty are surely most helpful to us to-day. Those who have witnessed an English coronation know that it is charged to the full with a profoundly moving religious character. Its ceremonial, nobly suggestive and symbolical, is essentially that of a coronation. The sovereign is acclaimed, arrayed, anointed, crowned, enthroned, as in the very presence of the Prince of Kings of the earth. He is reminded at every turn whose vassal he is. In his Master's Sacred Name he is admonished in every way that he is crowned to serve, to serve God by serving man in the faith and fear of God. We humbly thank the Giver of all good that in our gracious king we have at the head of the state a Christian man who sincerely and with conviction desires to live that consecration out.

Therefore, realizing the responsibilities that are his and ours, not only in the sudden outburst of enthusiasm, but in the every day life of loyalty to the great principles involved, we will sincerely pray, "God Save the King."

The service closed with the singing of a hymn, each verse of which, closed with the stirring chords, "God Save the King."

The Rev. M. White, Presbyter, took part in the service. The Rev. T. Powell, Methodist, although desiring to be present, was unavoidably away from town.

The choir did their part exceedingly well, contributing largely to the brightness and heartiness of the proceedings.

$8BENTLEY

The heavy hailstorm that went through the Red Deer district last Thursday afternoon, just reached us with the edge of it, but not enough to do any damage at this place.

Mrs. Velma Palmer arrived for an extended visit with her mother and brother, Mrs. and Mr. Wes. Weller on Wednesday last.

John Erskine, a merchant of Hardisty made us a call on Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Erskine was a resident of this place some four years ago and is now taking his summer vacation at Gull Lake.

A large number of Woodmen and others attended the Woodmen celebration at Rimbey, last Friday and had a very enjoyable time. The day was fine and Rimbey did its best to entertain the large crowd in attendance. The main event of the day was the baseball game between the M.W.A. team of Bentley and the Woodmen of Rimbey and for six innings the Bentley team was leading and promised to show the Rimbey M. W. A. what they went up there for, but in the seventh inning the Bentley hopes were batted to the winds. Rimbey hit a few into the crowd, one or two up into the sun, that left Geo. Carries sky gazing while the ball hit at his feet, and pounded it all directions, and our usually sure fielders were at a loss to even find the ball after it was batted and the crowd was continuously walking into the ball ground, in spite of our protests.

In the tug-of-war the Bentley held the heavier Rimbey aggregate well for some time, but the decision was finally awarded Rimbey.

In the races, the money was well distributed among the various contestants, Bentley getting only a small portion of it. Chas. E. Hansen has just completed another cottage at the lake, and is now building a residence for Norman Ross. The Rev. Aubrey S. Tuttle, of Calgary, has placed an order for a cottage to be built on his lot at Wiesseville, with D. T. Hamilton, of Lacombe. The Bentley Lumber firm has the lumber order.

Jas. P. McPherson, of our local lumber firm, is planning a few days at the Calgary Exhibition next week.

Harry Dameron leaves today for Calgary, where he has to clear his car of goods which is held in bond.

The hall proprietor here is building a large bowery floor, alongside the hall, and will be ready for dancing, July 1st, rain or shine.

Look for the Bentley Celebration advertisement in the Western Globe this week.

The Rev. Patstone, of Lacombe, conducted services at the Church of England here, on Sunday evening giving us his Coronation Semon.

Finally, Don't forget to celebrate at Bentley on Saturday, July 1st.

Great credit is due to Mrs. Bowker and Miss Mitchell for the manner in which they handled the stall. Never did so cream taste sweeter, whether from the fact of being dispensed by fair hands, or to the energy of those who made it, remain a mystery.

CLIVE

Mr. A. Adams, of Calgary visited his sister, Mrs. Andy Anderson this week.

On account of the storm which struck Clive and vicinity about four o'clock Thursday afternoon the sports had to be called off except baseball which was played between Clive and Alx with a score of 4 to 6 in favor of Alx and football between Clive and the valley which stood 3 to 0 in favor of Clive. There was a good sized crowd and at the dance in the evening every one had a good time.

A tramp entered the livery barn of Ties town and stole some clothes belonging to a man named Glover who missed his clothes and suspecting the tramp, boarded a freight train and was ready for the thief when he arrived in Clive. The tramp had thrown part of the things away and when caught was ready to accompany Glover to the place where he had left them. He was arrested by a Mounted Policeman and taken to Alx.

A letter received by the present scribe from L. Wilson Cordner, in regard to the basket social at Ties on the 16th, which is as follows: "I wish to convey to Mrs. Reynolds and to the Misses Reynolds, Allison, Miss Samsel, and Mr. Breerton the hearty thanks of our congregation over that event. We are glad too, for the neighborly feeling which exists between our two towns, and trust that any time Clive has a similar entertainment, in connection with your church, we in Ties may be able in some measure to reciprocate the assistance which you in Clive have so willingly rendered. Believe me, very gratefully yours, L. Wilson Cordner, Ties.
